A wooden horse, Spanish donkey or cavaletto squarciapalle, is a torture device, of which there exist two variations; both inflict pain by using the subject's own weight by keeping the legs open, tied with ropes from above, while lowering down the subject. The French called this instrument the Chevalet, from the French diminutive of cheval, horse.

The Wooden Horse is a 1950 British Second World War war film starring Leo Genn, David Tomlinson and Anthony Steel. It was directed by Jack Lee. It is based on the book of the same name by Eric Williams, who also wrote the screenplay. The film depicts the true events of an escape attempt made by POWs in the German prison camp Stalag Luft III. The wooden horse in the title of the film is a piece ...

Thank you for the great deal (no pun intended) of research you have done on timber paving – most enlightening! I remember in my student years in the 1970s living in St Kilda, Mebourne and warming myself with a fire place full of the wooden block being ripped out of the tramway on Brighton Road which was being widened to become a continuation of St Kilda Road, the famous tree lined boulevard ...
